

Aii
The American Indian Institute

The American Indian Institute (Aii)

was established at the University of Oklahoma in 1951 as a non-profit American Indian training, research and service organization. The Institute is a department within University Outreach at the College of Continuing Education. More specifically, Aii is under the umbrella of the Division of Public and Community Services. The Institute's primary goals include promotion and support of:

- Indian Education and Research
- Training and Technical Assistance for North American Indian Tribes and Communities
- Perpetuation of Tribal/Band Languages, Cultures, Traditions and Histories
- Development of Human and Natural Resources

The American Indian Institute offers workshops, seminars, conferences, on-site training and consultation on tribal, state, regional and international levels on a variety of topics and issues that affect the indigenous peoples of North America, Hawaiian Natives and First Nations of Canada.
